FORSYTHIA FOR SPRINGTIME

There are years when the forsythia does not bear up under the attention it commands as earliest of ordinary ornamental shrubs to become ornamental. This isn't one of them. Rarely, if ever, have the lemon-colored, cinnamon-scented blossoms looked thrifter.

The forsythia has been endowed with symbolic character. It is classified with cherry pie, pumpkin pie, falling leaves, the first snowfall, the first hunting accident, the first death from drowning, the beginning of baseball season, the end of football season, the night before Christmas, and the vacation season.

All of these events, like the flowering of the forsythia, are signs everything is coming all right and is under control. In Salem the forsythia, or golden bell, is the official flower of the Salem Garden club, and hence of the city of Salem. It was adopted when the club was organized ten years ago—the first garden club organized in this country.

In the last ten years the Salem Garden club not only has made the forsythia popular throughout the city, but it has developed a city of beautiful flower gardens and an interest in this culture which has grown rapidly. The club's membership is large and active and as it assembles tomorrow night to observe its tenth anniversary we knew the people of Salem will join us in saying thanks for the Salem Garden club—and for the forsythia.

CLEAN-UP WEEK IN SALEM

For about 25 years Salem has had a spring clean-up observance, starting with a two or three days campaign during which the rubbish accumulated during winter months was hauled away. At first a small fee was charged, then trucks were furnished free by the city.

Today is the opening of this year's campaign, but the objective has been broadened to include fix-up and paint-up. Sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for the last two or three years, the campaign annually makes the people of Salem more conscious of the benefits to be derived from this Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up week.

The idea originated 29 years ago when a St. Louis man started a spring clean-up campaign to beautify his native city. It wasn't long before popular acceptance gave the project tremendous proportions. Civic organizations, women's clubs, schools and other organizations began to help. The plan was seized upon by other cities and today more than 7,500 communities carry out their own clean-up campaigns.

The dividends are enormous in beautification, increased civic pride and the reduction of accident and disease hazards. Some cities have reduced their annual fire losses in this manner.

From its modest beginning this campaign means more than just piling up tin cans and other rubbish along the curbs for city trucks to haul away. The Jaycees have made it mean the cleaning up of backyards and vacant lots, painting buildings and fixing up properties so the entire community may take on a cleaner and fresher appearance. This is the week to pitch in and show the Jaycees that their organized efforts in this campaign are worth while.

THIS IS GOING TO HURT

All signs point to the willingness of politicians to levy more federal taxes. That is important. It is now considered "good politics" to talk about paying as much of the cost of government as possible. In the recent past, the same thing has not been considered good politics. Something has been gained in that respect.

It remains to be seen whether politicians will want to take the risk of facing another cold fact about taxation. President Roosevelt, who is in a position to give the congressional majority its cue on tax policy, has repeated that he is opposed to a federal sales tax. The inference is that he favors something else. He does not specify what that is.

Americans as a whole are not yet aware of the second salient fact about taxation. They are beginning to realize that there are limits to deficit financing and therefore taxes must be raised, but not that there also are limits to the revenue obtainable from existing taxes. When the World War made more taxes imperative, the income tax was an almost untapped source of revenue. Today the income tax is being levied at high rates. The total tax burden—federal, state, and local—has risen from $25 per capita in 1916 to $109 in 1940, which means from 6 percent of the national income to 20 percent.

Students of taxation have been saying for a long time that in event of an emergency, the federal government's ability to raise a large amount of revenue would depend on its willingness to experiment with broad general taxation, such as sales taxes or gross earnings taxes. The emergency is now at hand. It is being called an emergency. Public understanding of the implications would be furthered if political leadership were to acknowledge frankly what it knows to be true—That taxes no longer can be made painless.

FULL SPEED AHEAD

It might have forestalled a lot of arguments if Adolf Hitler had spoken more frankly on the occasion of his 52nd birthday. There are two things he failed to say that would have cleared up two matters of major importance.

He did not tell where he is going, and he did not tell what he hopes to do when he gets there. As far as the world knows, and that includes the Germans who are bleeding and dying for the Hitler regime, there is no Nazi program except full speed ahead. Germany's war aims are so vague they make Great Britain's rambling hopes for a better world seem almost concrete. In short, does Hitler have something in mind against the day when there may be no more worlds to conquer? Or, having gauged the resistance of humanity, has he decided there always will be at least one more world to conquer?

On the assumption Germany might some day lick everything within reach and be confronted with a prospect of peace, what would Hitler do then? How would he keep the boys from squabbling over the loot? What would he do to kill political termites and stop social dry rot? By what means would he forestall the same fatal diseases that already have claimed Italy, despite its claim to immunity from democratic decadence; that weakened France; that sapped the strength of Great Britain; that have kept Russia from becoming a major power; that have claimed a few victims even in the United States, outside the European zone of contagion?

The impression that Adolf Hitler, whose army and air force are strongest in the world at the moment, no longer needs to put on his pants one leg at a time from a standing position seems to be spreading. It would be most helpful to know if A. Hitler, himself, is beginning to think so too. If so, someone could save a lot of money.

Industry, steadfastness and sound principles applied to both old and new projects are in line for expansion and enduring gain.

A child born on this day should be steady, persistent and efficient in many lines which should contribute to security, happiness.

CONCERNING DISORDERS OF SYSTEM

Doctor Discusses Those After Age of 50

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

We are beginning to pay more attention to the problems of the middle-aged and elderly patient. A specialty known as "geriatrics" is growing up which deals with this subject. All bodily conditions are different, indeed, from those in vigorous adult life. The middle-aged and elderly patient may have symptoms from a particular condition that are very different from the symptoms of that condition in younger life. And besides that, they have special problems of their own.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

These observations apply to disorders of the nervous system in those over fifty. Most nervous symptoms at this age are due to changes in the arteries of the central nervous system, particularly in the brain. The commonest serious complication of this is when one of the hardened arteries breaks and an apoplexy occurs. Plenty of people get over apoplexies, however, and only a small percentage of them have the residual one-sided paralysis. A valued old friend of mine had a mild apoplectic attack fifteen years ago and has gone on ever since in spite of frantic medical advice to the contrary, tending to the details of a large business.

The little losses of memory and habitual forgetfulness that descend upon some over fifty are undoubtedly due also to changes in the arteries of the brain. The blood sometimes flows sluggishly through quite important areas and their functional activity is diminished. Personality changes, moods, suddenly acquired prejudices against members of the family have also an organic basis in poor circulation in certain localizations in the brain.

Tremor of Muscles
The most annoying of the symptoms of hardened arteries in the brain is the trembling and tremor of the muscles. These are often noticed only when a voluntary action is intended. I can tell the age of many of my correspondents by the handwriting. More amazing is the tremor that persists even when the individual is quiet. Some new remedies have been suggested for this condition which gives it a better outlook than was once the case, but in the elderly, remedies do not always work so well as in the young.

This brings up the subject of the action of stimulating and depressing drugs in the elderly. Alcoholic beverages may act very peculiarly here. Many an aging gaffer, who has been used to his dram before supper, finds it makes him so confused he has to give it up. Remedies intended to produce sleep may cause wild excitement in these subjects.

The digestion is not always up to par in them either, in spite of the persistence of appetite, and they may not absorb all the elements of a balanced diet even if they eat a well balanced diet. So nutritional deficiencies may cause mental confusion and neuralgias and peculiar sensations of the skin, and require reinforcement with the vitamins.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Fat: "Please print in your column what you think of a diet for reducing of skimmed milk and bananas."

Answer: This is the well known Harrop diet and is very effective. Dr. Harrop of Baltimore designed it in order to satisfy the two fundamental requirements of the reduction diet: (1) to have a balanced diet and (2) to have the meal satisfy the appetite.

A. L.: "Should a doctor be consulted at the first sign of varicose veins or will resting prevent them from getting worse?"

Answer: I do not believe that it is fair to say that a doctor should be consulted at the first sign of varicose veins and in the great majority of cases they never give any serious trouble. Rest and an elastic bandage may prevent progressive development for years.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

"Lover Come Back"

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

SYNOPSIS

Captain "Dynamite" Danny O'More, head of O'More Seiners Ltd., a Sitka, Alaska, herring industry, is dictating his memoirs to his spirited, young granddaughter, Sondra. His story goes back fifty years to the time when he, as master of the sealer, "Glory of the West," was hunted by Captain Ramps Reynall, terror of seal poachers. Danny was in love with Reynall's daughter, Jacqueline but just as their wedding seemed imminent, a quarrel parted them. Danny left Sitka but returned a year later, in command of a new ship "The Triton." He remained single long enough to marry Tanja Karamanova, descendant of one of Sitka's aristocratic Russian settlers. Immediately after the wedding, Jacqueline took a cruise around the world. Two years ago, Danny retired as executive of a Seattle steamship company and returned to "Echo House," his late wife's ancestral home. Jacqueline has just returned to Sitka after an absence of two years. Seeing her reminds Sondra of Jean Reynall, her childhood playmate. Jean's father was Jacqueline's foster son and after his death, the old spinster adopted his boy. Although Jean was sent away to school and Sondra hasn't seen him in years, she still carries him in her heart. Kemp Starbuck, young President of American Packers and Sondra's admirer, calls. Talk turns to Dynamite's sealing days and Kemp asks him how he was able to find the hide-outs which helped him outwit Ramps Reynall. Kemp appears unusually interested when Dynamite explains that he made a map which charted every dog-hole along the Aleutians. "There are some who would pay high for those charts just now but when those tracin' gq out of me hands they'll go to Uncle Sam and none other," vows the old captain. He believes Japan has so-called fishing boats, commanded by intelligence officers, checking the Alaskan coastline. Kemp scoffs at the idea, and changes the subject to herring. He would like all the O'More catch, but Dynamite explains that a strange outfit, The Baranov Packers, has an option on O'More's contract with the late John Bates for the fish. The option must be exercised by 11 a. m. the next day and a $30,000 advance paid. Even if it expires, Dynamite objects to giving Kemp a contract because he employs too many orientals. Polena, the housekeeper, interrupts the conversation.

CHAPTER SIX

The scowling housekeeper panted into the room. "Captain—Miss Sondra—that—that—" "Oh, scram, Polena," drawled a deep feminine voice. "I'll announce myself. Hello, everybody!" She sauntered through the doorway, a tall, dark girl, full-bosomed, yet slim. A cluster of crushed, brown-edged gardenias wilted on the shoulder of her black caracul coat. Her smart hat adhered to one side of her long, turned-under bob at such an extreme angle that the beholder instinctively looked for its moorings. Her red mouth was pouting, and her brown eyes swept the room with an alertness curiously at variance with her heavy, long-lashed lids.

"Is the Starbuck a heart-throb, or is he a heart-throb?" Liane exclaimed, executing a fancy step.

"Liane!" cried Sondra. "What a surprise! I thought you were in San Francisco." After a moment's hesitation, she advanced with outstretched hand.

"I got in on the mail plane last night." The dark girl kissed Sondra's cheek. "Ah, there, Captain! How are you, darling?" She flung an arm about O'More's neck.

The Captain emerged from her furry embrace, his eyes twinkling, and turned to Kemp. "Starbuck, I'd like to make ye known to Mrs.—Mrs.—Bless me soul, Liane, I don't believe I know the name of your current husband."

"I'm using my maiden name again, Cap." In one swift glance the girl had appraised Kemp's trim, athletic build; his tawny hair, the line of his mouth. She smiled at him, a slow smile accompanied by a fanning of her long lashes. I'm Liane Boonin."

Divested of hat and coat she sank into a soft chair and crossed her knees in a way that revealed one beautifully modeled leg.

"Well, well!" jovially boomed the Captain. "Seems like old times to have ye back again. Dark-and-Devilish! What brought ye home this time. 'Twas only last week your mother told me ye were packin' 'em in at the Lotus Club with that torch dance of yours."

"I was. But the only dance being done there now is a dance of rage by the birds who wrote the fire insurance on the dump. The place went up in flames."

"Oh, Liane! I'm so sorry. You do have the worst luck!" Sondra was sympathetic.

"I'll say," Liane adjusted her hair and ran her fingers over her penciled brows. "How am I standing up under the strain, Captain?"

O'More surveyed her with humorous and critical interest. "Tis like a lovely dark red rose ye are me gurl. A rose that's growin' a bit too near the dusty highway."

Liane laughed and made a face at him.

"That depends on you, darling. I'm tossing myself on the well known O'More hospitality again."

"Of course, Liane, we'll be happy to have you visit us. Your luggage—"

"Oh, I happened to meet Alexander on my way over, and I told him to get my bags and put them in your Lady Franklin room. But if you'd rather put me somewhere else—"

"Miss Sondra!" Polena's acid voice cut in. "I'm cleaning the Lady Franklin room this week. And the other guest rooms also."

Sondra, aware that Polena had just finished cleaning the entire upper story, said diplomatically, "But you manage such things so smoothly dear, I'm sure you can arrange it. Come along with me now and we'll see about the bedding. I'll see you later, folks."

As Sondra and the old housekeeper entered the small blue-and-white suite down the hall, Polena jerked to a stop. "Humph!" She pointed a fat finger at the battered luggage on the floor—an incongruous note amid the exquisite old French furniture. "Last time she stayed three months, and you away at the University. My legs, they had knots from running around waiting on her. I tell you, Miss Sondra, I won't do it this time."

"Now, now Polena!"

"She's with her airs. Everyone knows her great-great-grandfather was the murdering Thibault chief who led the massacre of old Sitka. And Alexander—if that grandson of mine lets her bamboozle him, by the hornwax jeez-bili, I'll—"

"Polena!" Sondra laughed. "When you you begin misusing the Captain's swearwords it's time to calm down, or you'll bring on another attack of your asthma. Come, now. See that the bed is made up, like a dear, and then unpack Liane's bags."

Sondra tried to be serious, but the old woman's look of malignant servility was too much for her gravity. "Look here, Polena!" She was laughing again. "Are you with me, or against me?"

"Miliaya!" The savagery of the old face vanished in a look of contrition and tenderness. "Are you not my eye-apple? My baby? Always I am with you. Always. I'll make her bed. I'll wait on her—to please you...."

She turned with animal-like quickness toward a sound Sondra had not heard. Liane and Kemp were at the open door.

Liane looked about her with a proprietary air. "Sweet, isn't it, Kemp? Lady Franklin slept in this room years ago when she came to Sitka looking for—What was she looking for, Sondra? The Northwest Passage, or something?"

"Looking for her husband who was lost while searching for the Northwest Passage."

"Oh yes.... Nowadays husbands find it simpler to get amnesia.... Anyway, it's a ducky suite. Take a peek at the bedroom, Kemp."

"I've already shown Kemp through the house," remarked Sondra, dryly.

"That's more than you've ever done for me, darling." Liane spoke quite without rancor. "And I would really like to see that chest of old costumes your defunct Karamanova kin used to wear."

"I'll be glad to show them to you, Liane. I'm going to lock them over in the morning, and select a gown to wear to the party. If you like, you may wear one of them also."

"Party?" The girl's somnolent dark eyes lighted. "When? What kind of a party?"

"A surprise—for Dynamite on his seventy-fifth birthday, day after tomorrow. A Russian night. Each guest comes as some character of Sitka's Russian regime. Those who have costumes of their ancestors will wear them. The others are having theirs made."

"Um-m-m. Ancestors. Too bad my family didn't preserve the war bonnet and armor worn by Chief Skayewit, on my distaff side.... What are you going to wear, Kemp?"

Sondra said, "I suggest that he wear the uniform of the Very Honorable Michael Andreevich Karamanova, Captain of the First Rank in the Navy of His Imperial Majesty, Nicholas I."

Kemp answered hastily. "I appreciate the compliment, Sondra, but—" he smiled—"don't you think a Navy uniform quite out of character for me? I'd fit better into a—well, a trapper's outfit."

Liane drawled. "Nothing so plebeian ever grew on Sondra's family tree, Kemp. The predatory ancestors are all on my side of the fence."

"Well, leave it to me, girls. I'll wear something appropriate." With that, Kemp made ready to leave. "I go, regretfully, ladies, I assure you."

The door had scarcely closed behind Kemp when Liane leaped from her chair. "Is the Starbuck a heart-throb, or is he a heart-throb!" she exclaimed, executing a fancy step.

Fun While It Lasted

INDEPENDENCE, Mo.—The horn of a car parked on public square blared unceasingly. Traffic snarled, pedestrians stared.

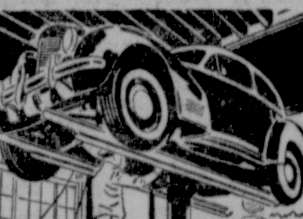

A gleeful 3-year-old gave no sign of a letup. Then help arrived and the car was towed open.

Mama spanked. Blistful silence—from the horn—followed.

One symptom of unrecognized tuberculosis is tiredness that comes on after a little exertion and that cannot be explained away. This is one of the warnings sounded in the Early Diagnosis campaign being held this month by the Columbiana County Public Health league.

NEW IDEAS PRESENTED IN SPRING FUR STYLES

Spring fur styles are as luxurious and glamorous as ever, but fur fashion experts have presented a new idea. Sumptuous things cannot be worn as often and really go fewer places, they say, so they have concentrated on practicality and wearability as well as beauty. Capes, stoles and jackets divide the interest. The first coat, pictured left, is made of perfectly matched natural blue fox in the new 32-inch length. The large melon sleeves feature the skins worked in reverse to give a natural shoulder line. Right is a champagne colored white fox, 24-inch jacket. In this model, too, the skins are worked in reverse in the full-length sleeves. Inset is the waist-length stole of silver fox, designed to give the effect of a waist-length cape. The ends may be made to form a muff.

Theatre Attractions

Don Ameche has Alice Faye and Carmen Miranda as near interest in his latest, "That Night in Rio," technicolor musical comedy, showing at the State theater tonight and Tuesday.

The picture gives Ameche a dual role, that of a South American baron and a handsome night club entertainer, and Alice Faye the part of the baron's wife, with the exotic Carmen as the entertainer's fiancée.

When the baron, an airlines magnate, is forced to leave town for a few days and the entertainer is hired by the baron's business partner to pose as the airlines official, the baron's wife, the entertainer's sweetheart and the audience becomes hopelessly bewildered. However, delightful music, beautiful girls in dazzling costumes and a series of amusing events fill the time pleasantly until the solution of the romantic and financial tangle is reached.

Four songs in the Latin-American way written by Mack Gordon and Harry Warren are heard in the picture and the "Brazilian Bombshell," fluent in English and Portuguese, introduces her native dance, the Samba.

STATE IS RICH IN ARMY MANPOWER

14,585 Class 1-A Men Are Available For Call Immediately

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, April 21.—Ohio, with approximately 75,000 men now under arms, has a wealth of manpower in reserve and could pour at least 12,000 more into the nation's armed services within a few days if circumstances demanded.

There are 14,585 Class 1-A men available for immediate call, Lieut. John J. Nolan, classification expert at state selective service headquarters, reported today. He observed that fewer than half of 853,504 Ohio men registered under the draft law have been classified.

"Of these 14,485 available," Nolan said, "about 12,000 would be accepted for army duty on the basis of past records, which show 14 per cent rejected for various reasons at induction centers."

There is still an "untapped reservoir" of manpower in the 337,607 registrants who have yet to receive their questionnaires, Nolan added. From these and some 110,000 who have received questionnaires but haven't been classified, he estimated more than 49,000 additional Class 1-A men would soon be ready for call.

But Ohio won't be called upon to furnish nearly that number for some time. Major Carl G. Wahl, selective service mobilization officer, asserted, Three-fifths of the June 30 quota of 52,497 have been inducted, and at the rate the army is asking for new men now, it will be early autumn before that number is reached, he added.

This quota is being reduced as enlistment credits from the war department keep pouring in, Wahl said. Present figures show Ohio need fewer than 18,000 men to fill the June 30 quota, leaving at least 36,000 Class 1-A men available under the next quota.

And this doesn't include some 6,400 college students who will be reclassified as the close of the present school term.

Managers adopt Rules: Jerseys, Caps Must Be Worn; Leetonia Out

Play will get under way Monday, May 5, in the Class A city softball circuit, it was announced today by Joe Kelley following a meeting of managers.

Five new teams have indicated that they will join the league this year. They are: The Salem China Welfare, C. I. O., Driscollwood Kennels, Salem Sporting Goods and the Electric Furnace Co.

These outfits, combined with last year's champs, the National Sanitary, along with Salem Recreation, Carroll club, Mullins Foremen and the Saxons, will make up the league.

Teams which will not be represented this year are the Salem News, Roberts and last year's championship runner-ups, the Leetonia Merchants.

Rules and regulations for the campaign were outlined. Teams will operate under a 15-player limit. Each player on the field must wear a jersey. Steel spikes were outlawed. The starting time was set at 5:30 p. m.

Managers of the church league are scheduled to get together at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the Memorial building.

Special Rules Listed
The rules of the American league shall prevail in all games exactly as written except those affected by the following:

The distance between bases shall be 60 ft., all other measurements shall be adjusted in proper proportion to comply with this.

The pitcher's box shall be 40 ft. from the plate.

An extra player to be known as the roving shortstop shall be allowed.

A team not having a quota of eight men at starting time shall lose the game by forfeit.

A base runner must touch his base after the ball passes the batter or is hit by the batter before advancing to the next base. For violation of this rule the base runner shall be declared out when the ball is returned to a player touching the base and a claim made by the pitcher.

However no baserunner may be put out under this rule after the pitcher has delivered to the next batsman.

The ball must be pitched underhand with the elbow outside the wrist as the arm passes the pitcher's body and the ball must be within six inches of the pitcher's body in passing.

The ball shall be 12 inches in circumference.

Ground Rules

A base runner may advance to any base except home on a wild pitch or passed ball except when the ball hits the backstop or goes out of the field of play.

Any foul fly caught out of the field of play shall count only as a foul strike against the batter.

The field of play shall be defined as all territory inside the lines extended from end poles of the backstop parallel to the foul lines and extended indefinitely.

Baserunners shall advance any number of bases on a wild throw except when the ball goes out of the field of play. They shall be limited to one extra base besides the one they are actually trying for at the time the ball left the field of play.

A fair hit ball which goes out of the field of play shall be an automatic two base hit.

Any play, however legal, which involves intentional roughness shall result in the suspension of the player responsible and a report to the president of the league.

A protest on any interpretation of rules must be made to the umpire in chief at the time of the play in question. This protest may be oral. A written protest accompanied by $1 shall be handed to the president of the league within 24 hours from the finish of the game.

The $1 fee shall be returned if the protest is allowed.

What Mister Big Says

Question is, should Billy Conn or Lou Nova get first crack at Joe Louis? Well, the old maestro has a few words to say on the subject. "I think Lou Nova deserves the June shot. He is tough and plenty big. Billy Conn is too small. He is big enough to fight Pastor, but I might hurt him."

SALEM ATHLETES FINISH 15TH IN MANSFIELD MEET

Hansell, Meyer Place 4th
In 220, Discus; Rhodes
9th In Vault

Elliott Hansell, Eugene Meyer and Tom Rhodes, members of the Salem High track squad, traveled to the Mansfield relays Saturday with Coach Fred Cope and placed 15th in a field of approximately 93 schools.

Hansell placed fourth in the 220-yard dash which was faster than this event is run in most scholastic meets in the country. This can be emphasized by the fact that Hansell won his preliminary heat in 22.6 seconds, which is a tenth of a second faster than the Salem Night relay record, and set an even better time in the finals. However, the race was won with a time of 21.6 by a Pennsylvania boy.

Hansell was headed by only one sprinter from this state. Meyer tossed the discus 129 ft. 5 1/2 in. to take fourth in this event. He was beaten out of third place by a half an inch by a Michigan boy.

The Sa'em lad however, was beaten by only two boys from this state. Meyer, although handicapped by a strong wind, cracked his own school record of 126 ft. for the light discus. Hansell also bettered the school mark for the 220.

Tom Rhodes, although not capturing any points, showed up well in the pole vault as he took ninth place in a field of about 60 vaulters.

Cleveland East Tech's track stars dominated the relays for the second consecutive year to win their third championship of the annual scholastic classic.

The defending champions scored 33 points, 14 more than second place Cleveland Heights, in competition with more than 1,000 athletes from high schools in five states.

Other Ohio scores were: East Palestine 14, Cleveland East 13 1/2, Springfield 10 1/2, Lorain 10, Columbus Central 10, John Marshall 8, Cleveland West Tech 7, Cleveland Cathedral Latin 7, Newark 6, Toledo Waite 6, Akron North 5 3/5, Cleveland West 5, Lakewood 4, Columbus North 4, Salem 4, Youngstown Rayen 3 3/5, Dayton Stivers 3, Columbus West 3, Akron East 3, Toledo Devilbiss 3, Warren 2 1/2, Mingo Junction 2, Geneva 2, Sandusky 2, Toledo Scott 2.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, the Salem track squad will travel to Warren to engage the Presidents in a dual meet.

Reds Down Pirates For 2nd Straight

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 21.—The Cincinnati Reds are here today to greet and beat their coach of the last two seasons—Jimmy Wilson whose play as catcher in last fall's series helped put the world title flag on the Crosley field mast.

Johnny Vander Meer, who looked good but lost against the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday, is the Reds' probable Johnny didn't get on the record against the Cubs last season, but his opponent today, Bill Lee, had a 1941 record of one victory against five losses with Cincinnati.

Wilson's won't be the only familiar face among the Cubs as shortstop Billy Myers was a winter switchover on a deal that brought Jimmy Gleason and Bobby Mattick to Cincinnati from the Cubs.

Forrest "Dot" Pressnell, Findlay, O., hurler sold by the Reds to the Cubs about four months ago, got credit for the Cubs last season, but his opponent today, Bill Lee, had a 1941 record of one victory against five losses with Cincinnati.

Nearly 20,000 fans saw the Reds end their three-game series at Pittsburgh yesterday with their second straight victory. Jim Turner, who pitched five innings and was a part of a three-run Red rally that decided the game in the sixth, got credit for the 7-3 triumph over Joe Bowman who was routed in that same sixth.

Sunday was a big day for little Linus Frey, Reds' second sacker, who poked a homer in the first, followed Werber's triple with a single to bring in the winning run in the sixth, and sent a topped grounder to second in the seventh which allowed two more scores when Frank Gustine threw wild. Frey was also middleman in a pair of double plays.

Harry Craft got his second homer of the season in the ninth and keeps his place at the top of the Reds' regular batters with 455 for 22 times up.

Kent Keglers Win
LIMA, April 21.—Kent bowlers emerged today as team winners of the Inter-City Bowling tournament here.

The Buckeye Novelty company outfit's 3,127 score withstood final assaults over the weekend, along with leaders in other events. Charles Herman and Sam Hunsbarger of Orrville won the doubles with 1,294; Paul Coss of Cambridge the singles with 708, and C. Schudel of Defiance the all-events with 1,933.

The Alliance Acceptance Co. team had 3,016 for fourth place and the Marion Ohio Amusement Co. team 2,990 for fifth.

Leslie and Kusner, Sandusky, were fourth in the doubles with 1,250 and L. Johnson and B. Shirk of Marion fifth with 1,250.

WOMEN BOWLERS MEET TUESDAY

The annual meeting of the Salem Women's Bowling Association will be held at the Masonic temple at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday. All members are requested to be present to elect officers for next season. Other business will be discussed.

Bingham's 2-Hitter Is Maguire Feature

Bingham's two-hit pitching performance high-lighted opening day competition in the Mickey Maguire league Saturday at Centennial park. Hurling for Fourth Street, Bingham hung up an 8-4 victory over Prospect.

Columbia nosed out McKinley, 4 to 3, and St. Paul edged Reilly, 4 to 7.

TROSKY'S HITTING IS BIG FACTOR IN CLEVELAND DRIVE

Milnar To Face Browns
Today In First of Three-Game Series

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, April 21.—The American league prognosticators placed a heavy burden on Hal Trosky's shoulders in pre-season slumps of the pennant race. They said if he started slugging again, the Indians would be tough to beat. The experts are right so far because the big first baseman is hitting and the Redskins are winning.

Drives In Two Runs

Hal got two hits and drove in two runs in yesterday's 4 to 2 victory in Detroit to boost his average to .435 and his run-batted-in total to six. The latter figure means he has plate almost a third of the club's 19 runs.

With the Indians back home today to play St. Louis, Trosky set his sights on the short right-field wall and the Browns nominated Eldon Auker to stop him. Al Milnar was named to pitch for Cleveland.

Aside from Trosky's continued good hitting, the highlight of the rubber-game victory over the Browns was the fine pitching of Mel Harder. The veteran right-hander with the doubtful arm limited the league champions to four hits in eight innings and fanned four.

Yields 10 Walks

Harder didn't have his usual control, giving up 10 bases on balls. Neither was he affording his usual good support, Russ Peters making two errors and Jeff Heath and Ray Mack one apiece.

Peters, playing in place of the injured Ken Keltner at third base, committed his miscues in the eighth and they enabled the Tigers to score their first run without benefit of a hit.

The Indians scored two runs in the third on singles by Harder, Rolfe Hemsley and Trosky, coupled with Charlie Gehring's error, and added another in the next stanza on Gerry Walker's double, a fly and an infield out.

Trosky's single after Roy Weatherly had hit and advanced on an out pushed over the final tally.

The Tribe plays the Browns three games, goes to Chicago for Thursday and Friday tussles, and then returns home to open a 13-day stand.

Bees Purchased by Boston Syndicate

BOSTON, April 21.—For the second time in his half-century of baseball, Bob Quinn is heading a syndicate-owned club that he hopes will be a pennant winner.

That esteemed veteran, popularly known as "Honest Bob," proudly announced last night that a dozen loyal friends had joined forces with him to purchase the 73 per cent controlling interests in the Boston National league club held for the last five years by C. F. Adams. Boston sportsman. Among them were Casey Stengel, the club's former National open and amateur gold champion, now a Boston broker.

It is understood that the Quinn group agreed to give $250,000 cash and a $100,000 note for control.

Retain Interests

Owners of the club's remaining 27 per cent holdings, former Massachusetts Gov. Frank G. Allen, ex-congressman Joseph P. O'Connell of Boston, and Leopold M. Goulsen, the club's vice-president, will retain their interests, Quinn revealed.

In addition to providing the means for the purchase of Adams' stock, the group also will supply fresh working capital, Quinn exulted.

Quinn and his group planned to get organized today and he said it could be taken for granted that he would continue as president and Stengel as manager.

The successful completion of Quinn's syndicate plans, launched five months ago, placed him in the same position he assumed here in 1923 when he and a number of Columbus, basic 4.4 per cent rate levied against individual incomes might be increased to 8.

Treasury and Congress Experts Study Big Fund Problem

Despite the expressed coolness of President Roosevelt to a general sales tax, discussion of such a levy persisted. Some members of congress said the approximate effect of a general sales levy might be attained—without calling it just that—by increasing the number of manufacturers' excise levies.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the ways and means committee indicted revival of at least some of the so-called "nuisance" taxes levied during the last war and repealed soon thereafter. Taxes of that period included those on railroad tickets and freight shipments, insurance policies and soft drinks.

Among existing excise taxes for which an increase was forecast in some quarters was the 6½ cents per pack of 20 on cigarettes. Others said that rates on liquor, wine and beer would be boosted but there was some opposition to this on the ground that higher priced liquor usually means more bootlegging.

FOREST FIRES HIT EAST; DAMAGE HIGH

New Jersey Damage Will Top Million Mark, Is Estimate

Other states where blackened tree stumps marked the paths of fires were Massachusetts, Vermont, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland and Virginia. In West Virginia, some 150 separate blazes were reported.

Sparks from picnic fires, cigarettes and railroad locomotives were all that was needed to set the flames, authorities said, and in one case wildlife was observed unwittingly spreading them.

Rabbit Ignites Underbrush
This was in New Jersey, where Col. W. G. Schauffler, U. S. army, retired, reported seeing a rabbit with blazing fur and tail, dart across a highway and ignite dry underbrush on the other side.

Six hundred Fort Devens, Mass., soldiers, fighting a fire in nearby Leominster, were recalled to the army post to beat out flames near the 366th infantry barracks and the rifle range. Twenty thousand troops are quartered at Fort Devens.

Fourteen soldiers stationed at Fort Dix, N. J., were injured when a truck in which they were speeding in fire duty overturned.

In Maryland, two small blazes threatened for a time Sagamore Farms, home of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's thoroughbreds. They were quickly quelled, as were brush fires at Fort George C. Meade and another that crept near Baltimore's city limits.

CLEVELAND, April 21.—John Binz had a belated 18th birthday celebration today after a one and one-half mile swim in the cold, gale-churned waters of Sandusky bay to effect the rescue of two companions on a fishing trip.

Binz was in a flat-bottomed boat which capsized midway between the Sandusky shore and Kafirala island yesterday. With him were two other 18-year-old Cleveland boys, Harry Fulton and Jack Murphy.

While his friends held on to the overturned boat, Binz kicked off most of his clothing and swam back to the island where he attracted the attention of James L. Russell and W. L. Chorpensing, both of Cleveland.

Russell and Chorpensing pulled in Binz, who was 18 yesterday, and went to the rescue of Fulton and Murphy.

Dr. and Mrs. Harwood (the former Martha Barckhoff) returned only several days ago from their honeymoon. She expects to follow her husband to Pensacola later on.

OHIOAN DROWNED ON FISHING TRIP

(By Associated Press)
CELLINA, April 21.—A flat-bottom rowboat took two men fishing far out in the Grand reservoir.

It brought back only Dillar Rowland, 42, of Miamisburg. He had the strength to cling eight long hours to the bottom of the capsized craft that pitched and tossed in a lake roughened by high winds.

James Wilson, 33, of Franklin, O., didn't come back. He gasped goodbye to Rowland and slipped beneath the waves a mile from shore after hanging on for six hours yesterday. The wind drove Rowland to shore two hours later.

CLEVELAND, April 21.—John Binz had a belated 18th birthday celebration today after a one and one-half mile swim in the cold, gale-churned waters of Sandusky bay to effect the rescue of two companions on a fishing trip.

Binz was in a flat-bottomed boat which capsized midway between the Sandusky shore and Kafirala island yesterday. With him were two other 18-year-old Cleveland boys, Harry Fulton and Jack Murphy.

While his friends held on to the overturned boat, Binz kicked off most of his clothing and swam back to the island where he attracted the attention of James L. Russell and W. L. Chorpensing, both of Cleveland.

Russell and Chorpensing pulled in Binz, who was 18 yesterday, and went to the rescue of Fulton and Murphy.

cally, and that would inevitably lead to war. Trade outlets are the cause of most wars."

Not "Shocked" Yet
He spoke of progress in the defense program, adding:

"I am afraid, however, that as a people we have not yet realized the imperativeness of our defense necessities, that we have not yet been shocked. No matter how fast defense production climbs, it will not be fast enough to meet the need, nor to satisfy our state of mind—our anxiety.

"There is no place in the crucial world of 1941 for any delay, or any excuses."

If Americans wish to preserve their accustomed way of life, he asserted, "we must lay gun on gun until every threat to our security has been met."

Jones' address was a highlight of the 41st annual one-day meeting of The Associated Press, attended by the cooperative press-gathering agency's members from many parts of the country.

Some 600 publishers, editors and business managers of newspapers throughout the United States and Canada are in New York for the meeting and for the annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, starting tomorrow.

The ANPA convention will center about a chief topic of national defense as it relates to newspaper publishing.

16 GERMAN PLANES DOWNED IN GREECE

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO, Egypt, April 21.—At least 16 German aircraft were shot down in Greece yesterday, the biggest total in one day since the German army began its offensive, the RAF Middle East command announced today.

Fourteen of the Nazi planes were destroyed in one big air battle over Athens in which a "very large formation of German aircraft" was engaged, the British said.

Seven British planes were reported lost, but three of the pilots were safe.

In addition, German-occupied airdromes and troop columns on the move were attacked. A fire at Katarini airdrome was visible 60 miles, the command declared.

Three Italian planes were shot down in an attack on the Port of Malta, and several others were damaged, the RAF reported.

BRITISH FORCES ARE FALLING BACK

Germans Reach Thessaly Plains, Continue Southward

By EDWARD KENNEDY
WITH BRITISH FORCES IN GREECE, April 21.—British forces are falling back generally to new positions in the face of a powerful German panzer drive coupled with terrific air attacks.

The Germans poured into the plain of Thessaly from three directions, occupied Larisa and then continued southward.

British, Australian and New Zealand troops are effecting the withdrawal skillfully, it is said, and their losses are comparatively low.

Repeated German efforts to outflank and capture the British units failed.

Karditsa, 14 miles south of Thessalonika, also is in German hands.

The general descent of the German divisions from the mountains came at dawn Friday after they had been held in the precipitous passes for almost two weeks.

Their first advance was through Grevena pass, where they pushed back the Greek defenders with an overwhelming mass of troops and equipment.

The British rushed some armored units to this region to check the advance temporarily and then, be-any or all of said bonds then said bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law under the direction of the Finance Committee and the Auditor, but not for less than their par value and accrued interest. The bonds hereinafter referred to, or multiples thereof, the proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon and the amount of said bonds issued for interest, shall be used for the purpose aforesaid and for no other purpose; the premium and accrued interest received from such sale and the amount of said bonds issued for interest shall be transferred to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund to be applied by them in the payment of the principal of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

Section 6. The City Auditor is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the County Auditor.

Section 7. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

ALLIES FALL BACK BEFORE NAZI PUSH

German Panzer Soldiers Reported 150 Miles From Athens

A Greek communiqué, however, declared that the new Allied line was holding doggedly under violent assault, and that nowhere had the Germans knifed through.

"Other German forces advancing across the Pindus mountains to the west took a mile-high pass near Metsovon, 40 miles northwest of Thessalonika," the Nazi high command said.

In Albania, Italian troops in a further advance reached the Greek border at many points.

Italian press dispatches said "a big battle to wipe out the Greek army" was raging at Perati bridge, which spans the Viosa river at the Greek-Albanian frontier.

Italian dive-bombers were said to have destroyed the bridge, trapping the Greeks on the Albanian side; but the Greeks declared that they had stemmed Fascist attacks in the west.

cause of the danger of being outflanked, they began moving their frontline units back.

They left light covering forces behind, however, and these held the Germans several days and inflicted immense casualties in violent fighting.
